Type of detached building _____

Type of use _____

Any buildings that have plumbing facilities which are detached but located on the same property as a principal residence can, after obtaining necessary permits, be connected by means of a private interceptor main sewer to the sewer system without payment of the SCAC Charge and the quarterly user charge, provided that such building is not used as a separate dwelling unit or business for any period of time either by members of the family of the owners or others.

That the owner of said property enter into an agreement in recordable form with the Sanitary District agreeing that, if in the future such detached building is used as a dwelling or business other than originally agreed to for any period of time the owner shall, immediately upon commencement of such use, pay the appropriate SCAC Charge and quarterly charge. If, in the event that a detached building is hooked directly to the sewer system, the owner must pay the SCAC Charge, plumbing permit cost, tap permit, if necessary, and the quarterly user fee.
